

Unitel Opens New Office in South Easton

Company Relocates to Meet the Increasing Demand from Companies in Boston and Providence for State-of-the-Art Business Communications Solutions

BOSTON, MA – June 27, 2007 - Unitel, a leader in business communications, announced today that the company has completed the purchase of a new building at 430 Turnpike St. in South Easton, MA 02375.. The company's relocation is being driven by the ever growing demand from companies in Boston and Providence as well as the surrounding areas for their advanced communications solutions.

"We're very excited about our new location," said Mark Worster, president of Unitel. "Our new state-of-the-art facility will give us the ability to train our customers onsite, conduct live customer demonstrations with our strategic partners such as Toshiba, Avaya, and ESI, and it enables us to stock a wider range of products. This facility will also allow us to illustrate the vast technology that we offer customers. It is the type of technology that has the power to increase our customers' profitability, improve employee productivity, and give them a competitive advantage in their marketplace." "In some ways our new facility reflects our transition as a company. Telecommunications used to be a fairly simple technology for vendors and customers to understand. The pace and complexity of the technology has change dramatically in the last 5 years, especially with the advent of converged voice and data platforms. We really see our role now as more of a consulting relationship where we are the expert partners that decipher all the complexity for our customers and take the guess work out of their technology decisions. Our new facility is a better reflection of that consultive culture."

Founded in 1987, Unitel is the area's leader in voice and data services. Organizations utilize the company's knowledge and experience to leverage buying power, maximize uptime, and reduce complex problems associated with the implementation and management of new technology. Unitel's mission is to offer quality products and services, while supporting them with world class service. Their unique value and company differentiator comes from their team of highly skilled and certified professionals who are empowered to exceed expectations. The team's objective is to identify technological challenges in context with their customers' business objectives enabling them to align technology based needs with organizational goals.

"This move will allow Unitel to have a presence closer to our rapidly expanding customer base as well as open up new geographical areas for pursuing new business," added Mr. Worster. "We take great pride in the fact that we maintain a very high retention rate and have intensely loyal customers. We don't, however, take that loyalty for granted and work hard daily to cater to their initiatives. "
